LAST EDITION NO GOLD BURIED THERE. Gen. Sherman Denies the Existence of His Hidden Treasure. He Was Miles Away from the Spot on His Famous March.

A despatch from Charlotte, N. C., this morning says that there is a considerable stir in Kershaw County, S. C., over the appearance there of two strangers, who say that they have been specially commissioned by John Sherman to search for a rich treasure which was buried there in 1865 by Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman when his army passed through that State.

As VASTO WORLD reporter called upon Gen. Sherman at his residence, 75 West Seventy-first, this morning to find out what he knew about this fabulous treasure.

The General welcomed his visitor genially, and pushing up his spectacles, which were provided with wide tortoiseshell frames, that lay on a table in the parlor, he asked the reporter to sit down and to wait until he had finished his breakfast.

"I went over to Washington last week and looked up the buried treasure," he said. "I am concerned. I have heard these stories about buried treasure in the South before, but I never paid any attention to any of them."

"Let me see. Where do they say this treasure is buried?" he asked. "Eighteen miles from Camden? Why, I don't believe I went within fifty miles of that place in that march, but I can tell you that positively in a minute."

"Now my column was the most northerly of all, and I didn't go near Lynch's Creek, as you see, but crossed the river away to the north at Mount Rocky Point. The column that went nearest to the place indicated was Logan's Corps, and both that and Blair's Corps crossed Lynch's Creek to the east of Camden."

"I am always glad," continued the General, "to have people come and ask me questions about my campaigns, because I have got all my maps and documents right here. I can refer to them in a moment, and find out just what I wanted, and it's no trouble to me at all. I assure you that I like to look up such little points for my own curiosity."

KILLED ON BROOKLYN'S L. William Smedley's Terrible Fall from the Station to the Street. An Unknown Man at the Point of Death with a Fractured Skull.

One man lying dead, and another for whom the portals of death are hourly expected to open, is the record of casualties on the Brooklyn Union L. road since yesterday's sunset.

A frightful accident befell William Smedley, aged seventy years, an employee of the Union Elevated Railway, this morning at 5.45 o'clock.

Smedley was on his way to his work, and in attempting to get on a moving 'L' train at the Myrtle and Washington avenue station, missed his hold and, falling, and fell to the pavement below, a distance of about forty feet.

Witnesses of the occurrence were horrified at the sight of the quivering body of the old man as he lay in a large pool of blood.

A policeman hastily called an ambulance, but before it arrived Smedley was dead. His body was subsequently removed to the Morgue and Coroner Rooney was notified.

Mr. Smedley lived at 43 Ryerson street, where he leaves a family to mourn his death. He was a temperate and faithful employee of the Union L. Company, and had often boarded moving trains at the station.

Another accident occurred on the same line of 'L' road last night at 10.15, which will probably prove fatal to the unfortunate victim, aged forty years.

RIVAL FOR HERR MOST. A New Anarchistic Journal to Be Established. Secret Meeting of Delegates from Principal Cities.

Herr Most and his Anarchistic journal, the Freiheit, is to have a rival. Representatives of fifty Anarchistic trade unions from Baltimore, Newark, Cincinnati, Denver, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, and this city, have been in session in an upper hall of the Essex Market building for the past two days, and, after a lengthy pow-wow, it has been decided to establish a paper with avowed Anarchistic principles.

The name has not yet been decided upon, in fact, nothing beyond the announcement of its birth has been made, but the members of the different Anarchistic trade unions are to be assessed $1 each, and the fund thus raised will be used to run the paper.

When the journal is started orators are to be sent forth among workmen to preach Anarchistic doctrine, and many recruits are expected to be enrolled.

Delegates Trinsky, of the Choral Union, of this city, is most active in the new enterprise. He says that every Socialist, from the mildest to the most hot-headed Anarchist, will be given a chance to be heard.

After a long discussion at yesterday's session it was decided to establish a central council, appointed by general session, who will settle upon some secret plan for members to work upon.

The meeting-room, which is on the second floor of the Essex Market building, was decorated with pictures of the Chicago Anarchists, whose names were hung. Mrs. Parsons and Laura Michel, while red and revolutionary mottoes flourish on the walls.

An EVENING WORLD reporter called upon Herr Most at the office of the Freiheit, 167 W. 11th street, this morning.

HAVOC BY THE CYCLONE. Miles of Wire Down and Block Island Cut Off. Forty-Mile Wind at Sandy Hook—The Cyclone Passing North.

The sweeping storm of which New York City felt the edge yesterday afternoon has almost gone from it. It passed over a portion of the country in the form of a belt, doing the greatest damage in the northern part of New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania, and in the southern part of Canada.

The cyclone has done immense damage to the telegraph wires. At the Western Union office this morning Wire Chief Baldwin said to an EVENING WORLD reporter:

"We suffered very great damage in this State. It is impossible to tell the exact damage yet, but many miles of wire were blown down. In Syracuse our wires were blown down and mixed up to such an extent that communication was next to impossible."

"The situation at Albany was nearly as bad. Our worst trouble in the State was at Chatham where the wires were entirely blown down."

"In Connecticut we experienced even more trouble than in New York, and the cyclone blew down wires all over the State."

At Uncle Sam's Weather Bureau in the Equitable Building, further news of the storm's work was received.

"We have received no report from Block Island this morning," said Serp. Danin, "and the cyclone has evidently blown down the cable and wire connections."

SLAVIN'S FORFEIT IS UP. He Wants to Fight Sullivan for $50,000 in Six Months. (SPECIAL CABLE TO THE EVENING WORLD.) LONDON, Dec. 27.—There is much interest in sporting circles over Frank P. Slavin's challenge to John L. Sullivan, and the answer from the big American pugilist is awaited with considerable anxiety.

Slavin has deposited his $500 forfeit with the promoters, stipulating that the match shall be for $5,000 a side and the world's championship, and that it shall occur in six months from the signing of the articles in Australia or America.

Slavin has written a letter to the Pelicans thanking them for the stand they have taken in his behalf since the outrageous affair at Bruges and assuring them of his intention to honorably hold the championship which they recognize him as holding.

Notice of Slavin's challenge and the posting of his forfeit has been received at the British consular office, with a request that should his big fight accept the terms, he should post his $500 at Mr. Fox's establishment.

John L. still insists that while he is perfectly willing to meet Slavin or anybody else, it must be for a prize big enough to make it worth his while to accept the fight.

He also thinks it will be time enough to talk fight when Slavin gets over to this side of the water.

As to the piece of fighting, John, of course, looks at no other than American pugilists, but he repeats that he has had the character of the members of the contest occur it must be under the auspices of a responsible club like the California Athletic Club.

His Street Cleaning Appropriation Lensed on Account of a Fat Contract. Although Street Commissioner Coleman will receive $20,000 more in 1890 than in 1889, from the contract for trimming sewers, he is not liable to have that additional amount for running his Department.

INDICTMENT Supt. Pierce, of the Brush Company, to Answer for Harris's Death. True Bill Against Him by the Grand Jury To-Day.

Another Presentment Against the Deadly Electric Wires. The Grand Jury made its long-expected presentment, in the case of the electric light wires, this afternoon.

They have been investigating the matter for nearly a month, and it was believed for maintaining wires that were dangerous to life would be a very strong one, and that a number of indictments would follow.

Instead of this the presentment is very mild and only makes recommendations to the Legislature, and one indictment alone is reported to have been found.

The person indicted is Assistant Supt. Charles W. Pierce, of the Brush Illuminating Company, who is held responsible for the death of young Harris, the clerk in an Eighth avenue store, who was killed by a Brush wire.

In the presentment the Grand Jury say that they have devoted a great deal of time to the investigation of the subject of electric lighting by the various companies operating wires, in order to find out if possible whether any of them have been running their systems without due regard to the lives and safety of the public.

For this purpose a mass of testimony has been taken, in which the Grand Jury say that the character of legislative enactment which they have practically been able to come to no definite conclusion in the matter.

The Grand Jury are convinced that the character of legislative enactment which should be investigated by the Legislature for the purpose of ascertaining the character of legislative enactment required to provide a means for carrying on the same without danger to the public.

WAS IT CRUEL MURDER? Mrs. Walters Found Dead in a Jersey Lane. Deepest Mystery Surrounds the Woman's Death.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) BELVIDERE, N. J., Dec. 27.—The agitation and excitement over the mysterious death of Mrs. Martha Walters, at Anthony, Hunterdon County, increases every hour.

That the woman had a fearful struggle is shown by the circumstances, her hair being disheveled and her clothing torn almost entirely from her body.

The body was found in a secluded pathway leading to a spring, but nothing is known as to how she came to the place.

Her hat was found in one spot, her mittens in another, and her shoes, hood, cloak and skirt were scattered about the ground, some on one side of the path, others on the other side and all at some distance from the body.

The body, too, showed marks of the struggle and the face was drawn into deep, agonizing lines, a distress which must have been most intense.

The authorities will leave no stone unturned to solve the mystery of the woman's death, and if, as seems possible, foul play is involved, to bring to justice the scoundrels concerned in it.

Policeman Gustav Siebelt attracted a good deal of attention at Police Headquarters to-day by exhibiting a curious Christmas present. It was only a chunk of lead, torn and twisted, weighing perhaps half an ounce.
